

National Council for Learning Resources membership Form

The voice of Community College libraries at AACC

Name:
Title:
Institution:
Address:
City:
State:
Zip+4
Phone:
Fax:
Email:

Memberships:
 Institutional $75.00
 Individual $25.00

NCLR FEIN No. 742697958

Make checks payable to: NCLR
Send to:
 Nan Schichtel, NCLR Treasurer
 1340 Seventh St. NW
 Grand Rapids, MI 49504-4888
 schichteln@gmail.com

Used by permission of Sinclair Community College Library

NCLR Accomplishments

Initiated 4 position statements adopted by the AACC board of directors

- Library and Learning Resources center program (2003)
- Student services and library and learning resources center program support for distributed learning (2005)
- Information literacy (2008)
- Open access and educational resources. (2012)

AACC Position statements are at:

<http://www.aacc.nche.edu/about/positions/pages/default.aspx>

Join Us Today!

Presented successful programs at the AACC Annual Conferences, covering recent topics such as “Engaging online learners for success: beyond the LMS” and “Student success using open source textbooks and curriculum materials”

Represents NCLR on the AACC Commission on Emerging Trends, Research, and Technology.

Nominated candidates for the AACC Governing Board elections – Past NCLR Chair served on the AACC Governing Board.

NCLR award—a $500 scholarship to community college students in honor of outstanding support for libraries and learning resources services by administrators.

Sponsors discussion sessions at both the Midwinter and Annual meetings of the American Library Association.

An affiliate council of the American Association of Community Colleges

NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR LEARNING RESOURCES

The NCLR supports the vital role of library and learning resource center programs in community colleges, and promotes the library’s mission in education, information literacy, and lifelong learning.

Join Us Today!

National Council for Learning Resources

An affiliated Council of the

The National Council for Learning Resources (NCLR) is your voice in the American College Association of Community Colleges. This is the only official representation of libraries and learning resources in the AACC organization.

NCLR is composed of library/learning resources leaders who have an interest in the mission and future directions of learning resources programs nationwide.

Your personal or institutional membership is needed to support the purposes of the NCLR:

- To provide a voice within AACC (a presidential-level organization) for learning resource topics and concerns.
- To highlight exemplary practices in libraries and learning resources programs at the AACC Annual Conference.
- To direct programming toward community college administrators and faculty members- not librarians.
- To advocate for library concerns within AACC.

NCLR business is conducted primarily through mailings, phone calls, faxes, e-mail and discussion group meetings at ALA.

Meeting attendance at AACC is not required: only officers attend AACC meetings. NCLR-sponsored programs at the AACC conference are designed primarily for the executive administrators of community colleges.

Your individual or institutional membership to NCLR gives you a voice in the only professional library organization which speaks directly to key administrators in two year colleges. Your support enables NCLR to have a unique impact on the way learning resources programs are viewed and funded at the national level.

For more information,
visit our website:
<http://nclr.surry.edu>

NCLR Activities

- Select a recipient for the NCLR Administrative Leadership Award.

This award is given to a community college administrator who has shown significant support for libraries and learning resources programs. A plaque is presented to the recipient and a $500 scholarship is given to the recipients institution in his/her name. This is the ONLY award in community college leadership which goes directly back to the award winner's college through a student scholarship.

- Sponsor an informational program for administrators at the AACC annual conference.
- Participate in AACC governance, advisory groups, and committees to represent community college library and learning resources programs.
- Liaison with other AACC affiliated councils.

Used by permission of Sinclair Community College Library